Employee Spotlight

David Kackley

A St. Louis area native, David grew up in the St. Peters area, spent a couple of years in Troy, Missouri, then finished high school at Wentzville Holt. After completing his Associates Degree in Electrical System Design Technology at Ranken Technical Institute, he started in the industry at Lee Deering Electrical for a year before being introduced to the distribution world and moving on to Rexel where he spent 5 years honing his skills. Holt Electrical Supply was his next 8 year step where he took over their commercial lighting department, ran it and built it up before settling in at Meglio about a year ago where his focus is now on lighting for national accounts. He admits it has been an unusual year. The pandemic circumstances have had him working from home, so he has only been in the office for a few events and like all of us, is looking forward to returning to some semblance of normal.

David's favorite seasons are the warm ones, especially summer when he likes to spend his free time outdoors mountain biking, kayaking and wilderness hiking. An avid trout fisherman, he knows the Current River well and cannot wait for trout season to open every year. He admits to being a big St. Louis Blues Hockey fan and is looking forward to when we can all go to games again. He is an action film kind of guy favoring The Jason Bourne Series, all of the Mission Impossible films, and flicks like The Transporter which feature skilled driving scenes. That's because he is more than a bit of a car guru. He likes to work on cars on the side, favors German manufacturers and owns a Volkswagen right now, but his favorite make is Audi. Even so he is looking at a Dodge Durango as something a bit bigger to support his outdoor activities. When David wins the lottery his first expenditure will be his new winter home in Hawaii. Then he would get a nice house on a lake here where he could go fishing on the off days. Feel free to reach out to David at dkackley@meglio.com.
